RESELLERS AND CLIENTS BATTLE IT OUT ON WEMBLEY'S 'RACE OF CHAMPIONS' TRACK

Resellers and clients raced against each other at a recent Wick Hill/Check Point event, on the Wembley track constructed specially for the prestigious 'Race of Champions' motor racing event.

Seven teams, totaling some 40 participants, battled it out against each other in racing go-karts on the same surface used only a few days previously by the likes of David Coulthard and Michael Schumacher, driving serious racing cars.

The Yellow team, led by Nick Lowe, regional director Northern Europe for Check Point, and including Ian Kilpatrick from Wick Hill, won the endurance race. It was tough going, with drizzle making the track somewhat slippery, and the racing was very close with more than a few incidents.
